Description:

Expanded with great new stories, this is the biggest and best anthology of ghostly hauntings ever. Over 40 tales of visitation by the undead—from vengeful and violent spirits, set on causing harm to innocent people tucked up in their homes, to rarer and more kindly ghosts, returning from the grave to reach out across the other side. Yet others entertain desires of a more sinister bent, including the erotic. This new edition includes a selection of favorite haunted house tales chosen by famous screen stars such as Boris Karloff, Peter Cushing and Christopher Lee. In addition, a top ranking list of contributors includes Stephen King, Bram Stoker, Ruth Rendell, and James Herbert—all brought together by an anthologist who himself lives in a haunted house.

There are 42 stories in this book. If you only enjoy three or four you got your money's worth. Many of these stories blew my mind: House of Dust brings to mind Eric Von Stronheim who is so desperate for female beauty that he ends up....And The Considerate Hosts, a tale about what happens when your car bogs down in a rain storm on a lonely road across from an old house. Maybe they should have stayed in the car. And The Waxwork, where a timid man decides to spend the night in a wax museum among murders cast in wax. Did he gain courage as a result? I could go on and on but I'm not getting paid for this. Suffice it to say, I have been checking this book out of the library for years. I decided to just buy the book and save on gas.

Knowing a person's most intimate thoughts and dreams. Even in 2011, that's terrible. I have owned and I love historic homes, and I've always personally done big decorating for Christmas, both in my retail business and home. The losses in men and ships were so heavy, Spanish power was dented permanently.
